BODY CONSTRUCTION
1955mm wide body (walls)	STD
Lightweight aerodynamic front nose cone offers dust free storage and unique styling	STD
Front nose locker (~660L) featuring ARB® aluminium track and load ring set x 4	STD
Large slide-out drawbar storage unit (~250L) - useful for Genset or Jerry Cans	STD
Front boot side lockers ~120L each (Gas bottles and optional dust suppression)	STD
Precision sheet-metal wall and roof construction (made in-house) to ensure a strong, yet lightweight, body with integrated insulation and durable powder coated finish. This construction method is tried and proven by Trakmaster and TRACK. It allows for strong wall to wall and ceiling joins with substantial edge finishing that protects the high-density foam insulation from the elements. This is far superior to foam panel clad vans which require end capping to protect the internals of the wall and joins from water and dust ingress	STD
Compared to pop-top caravans, this full height design delivers minimal setup time and easy access for roadside stops. Other benefits include larger interior overhead lockers, lighter construction weight with fewer components, less opportunity for water or dust ingress, ability to have the skylight or other roof mounted features such as solar and air conditioning. Lastly, the roof is vastly better insulated than a 'pop-top'	STD
Large external pantry (~115L) with deep well-thought-out shelves to accommodate a broad variety of food packaging. Featuring gas strut assisted door, LED light and compression seals with lock	STD
Strong single side doors give easy access to external storage on both sides of the Trakmaster Explorer's lower body. This allows the owner to view all the spaces at once and have direct access to every single area, without being impeded by small openings. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Lower body box (front) ~750L RHS (Fridge slide and storage)</li> <li>• Lower body box (rear) ~900L RHS (Kitchen and storage)</li> </ul>	STD
